

7.344

rapamycin; a protei semester. We will discuss with a panel of experts how they have applied recent discoveries about molecules being considered. A major goal will be to learn how to critically analyze the primary research literature. This class will include both written and oral assignments based on relevant literature, and